

Dear All,

Here are a few suggestions from Alix Brooke which you may enjoy viewing, particularly during the next three days of stormy weather.....

What to view in March

There is light at the end of the tunnel and the daffodils are bringing some joy!

The National Gallery has a lot of on- line talks some of which you have to be a member to view, but others are free.

www.ciceroni.co.uk

Go to on line lectures and there are some very good talks by Tom Duncan and others. You do have to pay. The talks are all under £10.

www.martinrandall.com

Martin Randall Travel

This is another travel firm that is doing quite a few series of lectures. Go to online talks. Again you do have to pay.

Bloomberg Collection

There are so many art galleries that you can now view on line. Try looking up some galleries in Europe or even further - in Australia. Melbourne has a good gallery. There are no end to places where you can go!

Even though you do have to pay for some of those I have chosen, it shows what excellent value our subscription is for our 10 lectures when we are able to meet in Stalbridge again.
